Going beyond toleration?

Should liberal-democratic states also recognize collective identities?

Thursday, March 8, 2012 - 5.30 p.m.
CEU Auditorium

The concept of tolerance and the practice of toleration remain relevant to this day in the quest for accommodating diversity within European societies. Two well-known political theorists,

Prof. Tariq Modood from University of Bristol and from University of Amsterdam Prof. Marcel Maussen engage in a constructive dialogue on whether and how we should go beyond toleration in liberal democratic states.

RSVP by Tuesday, March 6, 2012
to miljanm@ceu.hu

Followed by a reception
Live broadcast:
http://www.ustream.tv/channel/central-european-university

http://accept-pluralism.eu
http://cps.ceu.hu