President and Rector, John Shattuck and Department of Legal Studies, CEU cordially invite you to a public lecture

UNCONVENTIONAL RESPONSES TO UNIQUE CATASTROPHES: TAILORING THE LAW TO MEET THE CHALLENGES?

by

KENNETH R. FEINBERG

Former Special Master, U.S. Government September 11th Victim Compensation Fund and TARP Executive Compensation, Lecturer, Harvard Law School

Introduction: John Shattuck, President and Rector
Chair: Tibor Varady, University Professor, CEU

Date: Monday, May 13, 2013
Time: 5.30 p.m.
Venue: Popper Room, CEU Monument Building (Nador u 9.)

In this lecture Kenneth Feinberg presents an overview of how special compensation programs are occasionally designed and implemented to compensate the victims of natural and man-made tragedies. He will focus on “who gets what” when a tragedy occurs—eligibility requirements, the methodology and calculations used to compensate claimants, due process and procedural considerations, etc.

Kenneth R. Feinberg, of Washington, DC-based law firm Feinberg Rozen, LLP, is one of the world’s leading experts in mediation and alternative dispute resolution. He has served as Special Master for the 9/11 Victim Compensation Fund, TARP Executive Compensation, and the Agent Orange Victim Compensation Program. In 2010, Mr. Feinberg was appointed by the Obama Administration to administer a fund to compensate victims of the BP oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. He is currently overseeing the mediation of claims arising from Penn State and the Sandusky matter, the mediation of insurance claims arising from Hurricane Sandy, and the administration of compensation programs for the victims of the recent tragedies in Newtown, Connecticut in 2012 and the Boston Marathon attacks of April 2013.
